Who we are

The Eviction Defence Network is a group of tenants organizing to stop all evictions and fight for safe, dignified housing for all.

If you get an eviction notice

The legal system exists to defend landlords but it is still worthwhile to contest an eviction notice through the Residential Tenancy Branch (RTB). In many cases you can stop an illegal eviction. Also, you can't be evicted while a dispute is ongoing if you filed within the deadline, buying you more time.

File an RTB dispute: As soon as you receive your notice, file to dispute it. Call us for help. You can waive the $100 fee if you are low income.

Have your neighbours also received eviction notices? If so, let's get a meeting together. Call us to help organize one!

Organize!

To fight the power of landlords and developers, and the politicians and cops that back them, we need to build the independent power of our communities.

Join the Eviction Defence Network! We meet to share experiences and plan ways to support each others' struggles. Join our meetings or organize one in your neighbourhood!
